Life of Oswald On BBC Tonight

Reuters

LONDON, March 14—Millions of British televiewers will watch Tuesday night as a young American actor re-enacts events in the life of Lee Harvey Oswald leading up to the assassination of President Kennedy.

Actor Tony Bill was chosen for the part in the British Broadcasting Corp. play not only for his acting ability, but because he resembles Oswald.

Rudolph Cartier, director and coauthor of "Lee Oswald —Assassin," sees the play as "an absolutely honest reporting job of the most highly doumented event in history."